FALSE FIRE ALARMS.

.ve been visited by a few of the colored gentry in earth of rings, diamonds and watches of an expensive baracter. Unfortunately, the patterns generally exiblied for sale were not sufficiently dazzing or aborate to tempt the dusky purchasers, and they invariably left with the expressed intention of return-ing at a future day. With their departure; howarticles of jewelry also disappeared, and March 25 two sprightly colored youths called at No. 12 Marden lane on the pretence of buying a ring, and after they left nineteen gold plated chains were nineed. About a week later a colored man entered another jewelry store at No. I Maiten lane and saked to see some gold chains. A bundle of twenty-seven was submitted for his inspection, and after he had left without purchasing it was ascertained that he bad stolen one. A description was jurnished of the thieves, and one of them, who gave his name as William H. Jackson, was arrested. In his possession was found one of the gold plated chains, and he was promptly identified by Mr. Cornelius H. Miller, from whose store the chains had been carried off. The prisoner was arraigned for trial yosterday in Part 2 of the Court of General Sessions, Judge Glidersieeve presiding. The case was clearly proved, but the prisoner stoutly decided his gult and swore he was at Troy on the day the chains were storen. Two negro woman corroborated his statement as to being away, but on cross-examination by Mr. Russell they got the dates so riduciously mixed up as to cause much merriment. The jury convicted the prisoner without leaving their seats. One of the jurors who was sitting in the court room identified him as the third who had stolen a ring from his store, and another gentleman recognized him as the negro who had stolen a gold chain. Despite this overwheiming testimouy the prisoner in a brazzen manner asserted his innocence, and Judge Glidersleeve, who intended to impose a mitigated sentence because it was not shown that the prisoner had been previously arrested, senimpose a mitigated sentence because it was not shown that the prisoner had been previously arrested, sentenced him to the full penalty—five years in State

OUR MODEL POLICE.

Policeman Ambrose H. Cole was arraigned in the Dourt of General Sessions yesterday before Judge ditherland charged with conspiracy. He is jointly indicted with William A. McCabe. In November, 1877, a laise alarm of fire was given from the box corner of 129th street and Seventh avenue, and Officer Cole claimed to have arrested a youth named Samuel H. Clarke in the act. Clarke ayouth named Samuel H. Clarke in the act. Clarke was accordingly held for triat, and subsequently sonteneed at Special Sessions to be imprisoned on the lessing on the testimony of Officers Gole and McCabe. It may be mentioned that a reward is offered by the Fire Commissioners for the conviction of any person for giving a take slarm, and it is alleged that the amount was to have been received by the officer after the conviction of Clarke. It is further stated that he Cabe received only a small part of the reward and subsequently made an afficavit setting forth than it was be and not Clarke who had given the alarm for which the latter soffered these months' incarceration; that the did so at the instigation of Officer Gole, his brother-inlaw, by whose direction also be made tookey for the fire telegraph, and that Gole tool him be could make $50 by sensing forth the false alarm. McCabe also stated that Cole induced him to send out another false alarm that the authorities might be more zeasous in pushing the case against Clarke, and that ne gave his testimoly under Cole's coercion. McCabe, in an afflavit, states that he made the key at a locksmith's on Eighth ayenus, with the knowledge of the officer who was then and is now attached to the Sixteenth precinct. Mr. William F. Kintzing appeared on beneal of the accused officer, Mr. Charles F. McLean representing the Police Board. The trial of Cole is set down for Friday next.

TRUSTEES OF SAVINGS BANKS. Decisions were given yesterday by Judge Van Brunt n five suits brought by William J. Best, receiver of the German Savings Bank of Morrisania, against Nicholas Thiel, George Chippel, Franz Siegel and others. The facts of these suits have already been thers. The facts of these suits have already been seblished. The defendants were trustees of the bank ad gave mortgages to make good the bank's defliency, as required by the Bank Department. Judge an Brunt says that the theory of the defence that bees bonds were additional security for previous some is not tenable, the fact being that they were nade to make up the deficiency referred to. Under the circumstances he gives judgment for the plantiff, it says, in his opinion, that if any other view were oprevail trustees and officers of savings institutions outdo perpetrate the most flagrant frauds upon the

A PICNIC AND ITS RESULT. In the Marine Court, Part 2, there was tried yestera motley concourse of spectators. The parties to the action were a pretty petite young girl of eighteen years, named Ella Mead, who through her father brought suit against John McEneany for her seduction and loss of service. From the affidavit submitted to the Court by Mr. William F. Howe, the young lady's counsel, it appears that Eila was at a picnic at Bellevue Park on the 15th of last May, and that she there encountered McKneany, who succeeded subsequently in accomplishing her ruin. He was atterward arrested, and in delauit of $2,000 before Judge McAuam the girl recited the story of the wrong, and the cross-examination failed to snake her testimony. The cerendant admitted improper relations between nimeel and the girl, but denied that he ever made any promise of marriage except when he was "under sentence, of death." The "sentence of death." The "sentence of death." The "sentence of death." In the sentence he was locked in the bouse with the girl her latter threatened to snoot him if he did not marry his daughter. Mr. Howe made a vigorous summing up, and feelingly portrayed the great wrong perpetrated upon his client, and was Johnewei by Mr. Herman Strie, the delendant's counsel. Judge McAuam energed the delendant's counsel. Judge McAuam charged the juty, and the latter, after brief denberation, rendered a verdict in layor of the pisintifi, awarding her $600 camages.

CRAZED BY HIS LOSS.

A suit presenting some rather singular features was brought to trial yesterday, before Judge Van Brunt, holding Supreme Court, Circuit, John Peter Stromer being the plaintiff, and Jay Cooke and Co. the defendants. In August, 1873, the plaintiff deposited with the defendants $11,100. In September following he drew out $70, two days after which the desiredants failed. From the amount left still on deposit he has since been paid five per cont by the assignees. He brings but on the ground that the defendants, when they received the deposit, knew they were insolvent, slithough representing to him at the time that they were worth $13,000,000. The plaintiff was cauled to the witness stand to give his version of the affair. He is quite as eleverly gentieman and manifested a good deal of hervousness in the outset. At length he got very rambling in his statements and neither the course no; the Court could hold him in check. At length Judge Van Brunt suspended the trial, it was afterward stated that the plaintiff was nearly crazed by his loss and that his rambling statements were in consequence of unound mental conditions. It is not known yet whether Judge Van Brunt will have the trail featured or direct an investigation as to the sanity of the plaintiff. Meantime the defendants met the charge with the statement that they received the deposit in the regular course of their banking busibess and supposed at the time that they were soind. the defendants. In August, 1873, the plaintiff de-without cause. Feeling aggrieved at his removal be employed Mr. Alired Steckier to bring his case into the courts. Mr. Steckier yesterday obtained from Judge Danohus a writ of certiorari to review Mr. Kennedy's removal before the General Icram. In a suit brought by Willis S. Paine, receiver of the Bond Street Savings Bank against Terence Farley and Robert McCafferty, in which the laster defendant assumed a mortgage not knowing that there was such assumption in the deed, decision was given yesterday by Juage Van Brunt. He noids that the fact of the record of the deed with such assuming clause does not carry with it such lability with the ignorance of such assuming clause.

George Bine and others, Commissioners of Highways in Punnam county, recently applied to Juage Donohue for an injunction restraining the city from allowing the water in the new Cruton Reservoir to overflow the old roadway between Carmel and Browsters Station, unless a causeway is built over the reservoir, to be used as a public thoroughfare. It being shown that the city had inst out another road between the two towns named, and that the same was approved by the majority of the residents in that vicinity, Judge Donohue yesterday refused to grant the injunction.
